Note from the Pastor

I was thumbing through my archives when I came across this note I wrote in 2006. Here we are seven years later and little has changed. Actually, it's a lot worse. When do we learn? How do we act? How long, O Lord?

"Are the children safe?" I screamed into the phone with tears running down my eyes. My daughter TuAnh reassured me that they were okay. They were all in their schools and nowhere near Columbine High School where the massacre was occurring. It wasn't until a year later that my oldest granddaughter, Ange Raphaëlle would be a freshman at Columbine High School. I remember how strange it was to walk the corridors of the high school as I attended one of her choral concerts. This is the scene of one of the most vicious crimes against children in our nation's history. And then three weeks ago it happened again in Colorado. And again in Wisconsin. And then finally in Pennsylvania. Now what? What is the proper response? I am afraid that the common response has been, what a pity. How sad. I'm really glad it didn't happen here. Let's get on with our lives. And so we do.

What is the proper response? In 1958, the fire rushed through the rickety old school of Our Lady of Angels and sent the city of Chicago and the nation into shock over the needless loss of life. And the response? Steel doors. If there is any way we can prevent it, this must never happen again. At Columbine? Metal detectors. Security cameras. In Wisconsin? Well, a state legislator wants to arm teachers and principals with guns to protect the children against violence by the use of violence. And Pennsylvania? And Pennsylvania!

Pennsylvania is different. The school attacked this time is not a sophisticated suburban facility but a one room Amish school house. Now, most of us know the Amish from their picturesque rural lifestyle living somewhat in the 19th century, They come from the Ana Baptist tradition and were also persecuted in Europe and so came to this country to live their lifestyle as they saw fit. And their lifestyle? To live as closely to the Sermon on the Mount as they possible can. In order to do this, they are quite convinced that they cannot both live in the modern culture and hear the voice of Jesus clearly speak to them at the same time. From our perspective they seem rather quaint and very simple. They are neither. This is a very intelligent community that chooses to live deliberately. They have made a rather sophisticated choice to live a simple life. And they have chosen to take most seriously the Sermon on the Mount and to live modeled on the early communities of the Acts of the Apostles. And up until two weeks ago it has worked quite well for them. And now, if we pay very close attention, it can work quite well for us as well.

And Jesus climbed up the mountain and sat down. His disciples gathered around him and he began to teach them at length. "How blessed are the poor in spirit, for the Kingdom of God is theirs." Holy and blessed are those who do not have to have all the answers, who do not have to take every problem in the world and wrap it around their mind to solve it. Blessed are those who could live in mystery who do not have to ask why. Blessed are those who are able to let go of control. Not once did I hear the Amish scream out, "Why is this happening to us? What have we done to deserve this?" In their incredible silent acceptance they have been more eloquent than a thousand pundits trying to explain it away. "How blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted." They will weep at their great loss, they will cry to the Lord in their distress. And they shall be comforted. They believe that and so shall it be. "Blessed are the merciful for mercy shall be theirs." When an injustice has been done to us, we want justice done to them. We demand an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth and will not rest until justice (as we perceive it) is done. How instructive, how grace filled the response of the Amish community who went to the house of the murderer to give their condolences to his wife. Many of them attended his funeral. And all of them, even though they did not understand, knew that they were mandated to forgive. This is not some pie in the sky ideal, this is happening right here and right now for all to see" Let those who have eyes to see, see!

"Blessed are the peace makers for they should be called the sons and daughters of God." The Amish are part of the Mennonite tradition which is one of the great peace churches in Christianity. They do not fight. They take literally Jesus' mandate to turn the other cheek. They are not naive. They know there is no cheap grace. But they also know that violence begets violence and hatred begets hatred and when we try to attack and kin evil, we become a mirror image of that which we hate, we become hateful. And it doesn't take an advanced degree to see that we are slowly collapsing into this as a nation and culture today. The Amish are standing up to us and saying, "No." That way doesn't work. The way that works is the way we have been shown by Jesus. And the way we have been shown by Jesus is the way of the cross. The legions of angels were at his command, He did not strike back. He endured the evil of hatred and sin so that it may be transformed into grace and life. Look, people, it is happening all over again right before our eyes. They are showing us the way.

Are they naive? Quaint? Out of the loop? We should be so out of the loop. We should be so naive! No, they know exactly what they are doing. They are doing what Jesus did. They are taking the gospel of Christ seriously. Their model is Jesus and they are following Him without reservation. And us? There is a spiritual law that no one can grow spiritually without a model. We have to see it done before we can do it ourselves. Well? Take a good look.

In Jesus, the model of us all,

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE BISHOP WORLD MISSION SUNDAY 2013

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

World Mission Sunday, organized by the Propagation of the Faith, is a day set aside for Catholics worldwide to recommit themselves to the Church's missionary activity through prayer and sacrifice. This year, World Mission Sunday will be celebrated on October 20.

Each year the needs of the Catholic Church in the missions grow – as new dioceses are formed, as new seminaries are opened, as areas devastated by war or natural disaster are rebuilt, and as other areas, long suppressed, are opening up to hear the message of Christ and His Church. That is why the involvement and commitment of Catholics from around the world is so urgently needed. Mission dioceses – about 1,000 at this time – receive regular annual assistance from the funds collected from this annual appeal. These funds help support catechetical programs, the work of Religious Communities, communication and transportation needs, and the building of chapels, churches, orphanages and schools.

Modeling Pope Francis's love for the "least among us" and fulfilling the call from Christ to love our neighbor, I ask you to support this special collection on World Mission Sunday. Last year the diocese provided $235,000.00 to this effort. May the Lord bless you for your generosity.

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Most Reverend R. Daniel Conlon

NICARAGUA MISSION UPDATE

Here is an update on Brian Wise's mission trip to Nicaragua.

"First of all, thank you all for your very generous donations. Our group (7 students and 3 adults) brought 6 large suitcases full of donations for the orphans. We brought them to two orphanages and a day camp, which had about 75 kids. The kids appreciated the donations very much. We spent most of our time building a house for a mom and her kids. The government gave her land but she had to build on it to keep it and time was running out. We had to clear the land first and then start building. We had multiple rain delays so we didn't get to finish it but we got the majority of it finished and found someone to finish it for her. She was really happy with what we accomplished and we were really glad we could help. Thank you again for all your support and your prayers. It was a great trip."
