A NOTE FROM FATHER JASON

Throughout Ordinary time this year, we will be reading the Gospel of Luke. This week, we hear the beginning of the Gospel, and then jump the Christmas Narrative to Jesus' return to Nazareth, proclaiming that the prophesies are fulfilled in our hearing. We owe our hearing to the effort that Luke says he undertook for us, that we may have certainty of faith in the fact that Jesus is our Savior and Messiah.

And he did write the gospel in which we find the Christmas narratives, many parables, and come to know Jesus as the divine physician for us. He addresses the Gospel to you, most excellent Theophilus. Theophilus means one who loves God. Luke's Gospel is meant for all those who love God, because Luke believes and wants us to know that the Good News of the Salvation of God brought to us by Jesus is for all of us who love God.

Even though we probably do not give our love of God much thought and some days may even question deep in our heart whether we can love God, the Gospel is still for us. On the day of our baptism, we were marked as sons and daughters of God, who calls us to be Theophilus, a people who loves Him. Even though a relationship with a father can be complicated, we are called to at least listen so that the word can find fulfillment in our hearing.

This year, as we listen to Luke's Gospel, let us pray that our listening would be fruitful. As we hear about Jesus who welcomes the poor and outcast, pours the Spirit upon us, heals us of that which divides us, and walks with us on our journey to Jerusalem, where we will hear God call us by name, and our longing to know the love He sent His son to give us, will be fulfilled.

Fr. Jason
