A MESSAGE FROM FATHER JASON

In the later passages from Luke's gospel, Jesus is calling the Pharisees to task for their lack of charity and selfish use of power and wealth. At the same time, He is calling His disciples into a mindset of stewardship, to move them to recognize the gifts they have been given and to share them with those in need, who often are right in front of us. They may not literally be on our doorstep, but chances are you will not have to go far to find a need. As our hearts hear these calls to give of ourselves, May God open our hearts to use our gifts to help all who are in need.

Fr. Jason

I would like to think that most people in the world would help someone who was suffering if they had the chance. I guess my optimism starts to take a hit when I consider that in some cases the cost will be higher for that help than in others. To help someone with a meal or transport someone to a doctor is one thing. To offer oneself completely, all of one's money or time, is quite another.

Of course, there have been famous examples of this type of giving. The recently canonized St. Teresa of Kolkata comes to mind. But I personally know of others who have given everything for another. Friends who have adopted an older child, gone to live as missionaries in a far off land, or added on to their house in order to care for an aging parent are all examples to me of those who answer the call without counting the cost.

I am not concerned with not being able to follow the examples of these stewardship heroes. What concerns me is becoming too comfortable and not noticing the Lazarus that may be in my midst. Living a life of Everyday Stewardship means not only answering the call when it is obvious and when we have the chance to truly do something amazing, but also when it is less obvious and the need not as easily noticeable. Who doesn't want to help the starving child they see on a late night infomercial? But the sad reality is that sometimes there are children lying at our proverbial door that fail to gain our attention.

So, I pray to see with the eyes of Jesus. I ask that I may be ever more mindful of those in need who cross my path. I pray to see Jesus in them. I pray to be Jesus to them. I pray that I may answer the call.

PRE SCHOOL NEWS

A MESSAGE FROM GENET PINKERTON

We are so very busy in the school. We attended morning Mass for the first time. It is an important experience for the children as they not only learn how to pray but also how to sit quietly. We are grateful to the daily parishioners for their patience and kindness as we learn. A big thank you to Chris Van Duerm for coordinating our preschool families that spread the new woodchips on our playground. With a dozen helpers, the job was complete in an hour and a half; it looks great and is safe.

Collections:

Our year-round collections will be pop-tabs and box-tops. These items can be brought to the parish office or left in Mary's gathering space by the St. Vincent DePaul bin.

New this year - we will collect clean plastic lids. We are going to create a mosaic with the lids. We will use all colors and sizes of plastic lids. These items can also be brought to the parish office or left in in Mary's gathering space by the St. Vincent DePaul bin.

Service collection - 14th Annual Undy Sunday is October 16. Catholic Charities is collecting underwear and socks which will be distributed to low-income children, families and seniors throughout the Diocese of Joliet. Please mark your calendars and be ready to bring in your donations on the weekend of Oct. 15/16.
